Preface

The cultivation of fruit and berry crops is one of Ukraine’s traditional agricultural sectors, as it has significant potential due to favorable soil and climatic conditions that allow for the production of various types of fruits and berries.

The sector plays an important role in Ukraine’s economy, as it provides raw materials for industrial processing in certain industries. The natural potential of the sector contributes to high yields of fruit and berry crops and continues to support their development and growth in volume. Despite the war and its consequences, the berry industry continues to expand, increasing production and creating opportunities for export.

According to the State Statistics Service, the volume of fruit and berry production by enterprises in Ukraine in 2024 amounted to 310.62 thousand tons, of which 149.07 thousand tons were berry crops.
The main crops produced are:
Garden strawberries (strawberries) – the most common berry in Ukraine, accounting for over 60% of the total harvest. According to preliminary data, approximately 51.6 thousand tons of strawberries were harvested in 2024. Main regions: Kyiv, Vinnytsia, Kherson, and Lviv regions;

Raspberries and blackberries – raspberries are the second most important crop. In 2024, due to the demand for frozen raspberries for export, preliminary data indicate that the harvest amounted to 57 thousand tons. It should be noted that blackberries remain a niche product that is gradually gaining momentum, especially for processing. The main growing regions are Volyn, Rivne, Ivano-Frankivsk, Chernivtsi, and Zakarpattia;

Blueberries – the most dynamic segment. According to preliminary data, the harvest reached about 9 thousand tons. The main cultivation areas are concentrated in Zhytomyr, Kyiv, Volyn, and Rivne regions.

The total area under fruit and berry crops is 41.4 thousand hectares. Of this, the largest berry areas are occupied by:
blueberries – 1.4 thousand hectares;
currants – 0.9 thousand hectares;
raspberries/blackberries – 0.8 thousand hectares;
strawberries – 0.6 thousand hectares.

Sincerely,
Deputy Minister of Economy, Environment and Agriculture of Ukraine Taras Vysotskyi

Dear Friends,

It is a great honor to present the seventh edition of the Ukrainian Berry Industry Catalogue. This year has once again been a test for our country, but it also demonstrates the resilience and determination of Ukrainian producers. Despite ongoing aggression, Ukrainian berry companies continue to operate, supporting the economy and supplying the global market with high-quality products. In particular, frozen raspberry exports in 2024 reached a record 65,000 tons, making Ukraine a world leader in net exports of this product. It is expected that this trend will continue in 2025, as reduced harvests in traditional producing countries, such as Poland and Serbia, open new opportunities for Ukrainian suppliers.

The blueberry market is also showing positive growth. Thanks to favorable climate conditions and investment in the sector, Ukraine is rapidly increasing blueberry production and exports, emerging as one of the new aggressive exporters on the global market.

This year’s catalogue demonstrates that, despite all challenges, Ukrainian berry companies not only maintain but strengthen their positions in international markets. They continue to grow, implement innovations, and seek new opportunities for cooperation. We are grateful for your support and collaboration. Together, we continue to move forward, strengthening international business relations and contributing to the development of the Ukrainian berry industry. We remain your reliable and dedicated partners!

Sincerely yours,
Iryna Kukhtina, President of the Ukrainian Berries Association

Overview of the Ukrainian Berry Market — 2024

Ukrainian producers offer a wide range of wild and cultivated berries. Frozen raspberries lead in export growth, blueberry exports are expanding significantly, and production of strawberries and currants remains.

2024, Ukraine exported a record 65,000 tons of frozen raspberries, making the country a world leader in net exports of this product. Blueberry exports in 2024 reached 5,000 tons, an increase of approximately 33% compared to the previous year. According to industry and trade data: Exports of frozen fruits and berries from Ukraine in 2024 totaled around 100,58 tons, indicating significant growth in the sector. Fresh berry exports (e.g., strawberries, currants, raspberries) remain much smaller in volume compared to frozen berries. Comprehensive data combining fresh and frozen exports for all berry types in 2024 are less consistently published.

Regarding production: Raspberry production in Ukraine in 2024 is estimated at 65,000–70,000 tons annually, including household and unregistered production. Blueberry production is also growing, supported by export volumes of approximately 5,000 tons. Other trends: Almost all exported raspberries are shipped in frozen form; fresh exports are minimal or niche. The blueberry market is experiencing both volume growth and higher export prices. In 2024, Ukraine’s blueberry exports generated approximately $26 million, an increase of 56% compared to the previous year.
